Our GCSE pupils 'are not choosing university'

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

HIGH-ACHIEVING GCSE students in Haverhill are less likely to go to university than others in the Cambridge area, new research has revealed.

Haverhill North and Haverhill East are in the bottom tenth of electoral wards nationally in terms of the gap between GCSE attainment and university attendance.

The figures, produced by the Higher Education Funding Council for England, rank wards across England in terms of the gap between the number of young people that might be expected to go to university based on their GCSE results and the number that actually do go on to higher education.

The researchers have grouped all wards nationally into 10 "deciles" based on how likely high-achieving students are to go to university.

In Haverhill East, where the town's Samuel Ward Academy is based, the percentage gap between expectation and attainment is 6.2 per cent. In Haverhill North, where

Castle Manor Academy is based, the figure is 6.1 per cent.

Howard Lay, chair of the Samuel Ward Academy Trust, which runs Samuel Ward Academy, said that family background and culture play a big part in whether students go into higher education.

He said: "It's to do with a history of attending university in the family and around confidence and developing that sense of expectation.

"If the expectation isn't in the family, then the school's got a responsibility to do that."

He said that at schools in the Samuel Ward Academy Trust, outreach activities such as trips to universities and publishing a magazine of students' best work are used to encourage high achievers to consider university.

A spokesperson for Castle Manor Academy said: "We provide a wide range of access activities and our students who apply to university have a good success rate. We encourage all students to follow the path that is right for them."

Other nearby areas in the lowest decile include Eriswell and the Rows and Great Heath, both in Forest Heath, as well as Soham South and Hardwick and Bar Hill in Cambridgeshire.

Godmanchester and Queen Edith in Cambridge city are the only wards in the Cambridge area in the top decile nationally, with 8.4 per cent and 7.9 per cent respectively more students than might be anticipated going to university.

Anglia Ruskin University's senior outreach officer Marc Rothera said: "This data suggests that there are some areas of our region where people are not fully informed about the education choices available to them. Whilst we recognise university isn't for everyone, and there are other opportunities out there, we will be using this new data to help guide our outreach activity and ensure young people are aware of the benefits of further study."

FESTIVE: The Westfield Primary pupils during their visit to Cleves Place

Pupils entertain care home residents

CARE home residents in Haverhill were treated to festive music and nibbles during a visit from a local primary school.

Twenty-seven Year Six pupils at Westfield Primary School dropped in to Cleves Place Care Home in Greenfields Way on December 16.

They sang carols for the residents and some students played instruments.

Tesco community champion Claire Bowden also attended the event, bringing mince pies, Christmas cakes and drinks, as well as sweets for the children.

Maureen Aillud, lifestyle co-ordinator at Cleves Place, said: "It was a lovely morning, the residents had a great time, the children were wonderful."

"A big thank you for Clare Bowden. Tesco's have been very kind to Cleves Place."

Cash news 'won't save front desk'

CUTS to the police service are set to be millions of pounds less than originally thought - but the front desk of Haverhill police station will still close.

Suffolk Constabulary announced last week that its savings target - currently £20.5million - is likely to be reduced by several million pounds after new information from the Home Office.

The force received detailed funding information on December 17, after Chancellor George Osborne announced in November that police funding would be protected in the next round of government cuts.

The precise figures will not be announced until January, but Suffolk Police are planning on using the extra money on recruitment.

Temporary Chief Constable Gareth Wilson said: "[The] news from the Home Office was far better than we had anticipated and has had a significant impact on our budgeting and savings requirement over the next few years."

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

He said that the force would now be able to lift a two-year freeze on recruitment significantly earlier than expected.

The news comes after significant cuts to the force - including axing 68 PCSO roles - were announced.

Suffolk Police say that they will now axe fewer police officer jobs, but that the other cuts will go ahead as planned in April. This includes closing the front desk at Haverhill police station - and many others across the county - to the general public.

Only the front desks at Ipswich, Lowestoft and Bury St Edmunds police stations are set to remain open.

Temporary Chief Constable Wilson said: "A significant savings requirement still remains, and of equal importance is the need for us to re-design to suit the challenges we face today. Our demand has changed and we need to be structured in a way that enables us to respond to the demands of today and the challenges of the future so that we can continue to keep our communities safe."

Before the Home Office funding news emerged, Suffolk Police confirmed that the number of PCSOs at Haverhill Police Station would be reduced from eight to five. They were unable to confirm whether this would still be the case in light of the new funding information.

On December 14, Haverhill Town Council decided to invite Temporary Chief Constable Wilson and police and crime commissioner Tim Passmore to be quizzed about the cuts.

A date for the meeting is still being arranged.

Crossing delivered, but campaigner 'disappointed'

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A PEDESTRIAN crossing which residents have been campaigning for for years has finally been delivered – but one campaigner is not satisfied.

Haverhill resident Ron Davies said they should have installed a layby for the buses to use to increase safety for people getting off.

And he is also annoyed that the new bus shelter was left lying in a ditch before being erected and so "is absolutely filthy".

Mr Davies was one of those who campaigned for three years for a crossing, after witnessing a boy nearly run over on the A1307 outside Sainsbury's.

He wanted to see a pedestrian crossing installed on the 40mph road, as buses from Cambridge stop opposite the supermarket and people – including schoolchildren – were often taking risks as they crossed to get to the shop.

The campaign garnered support from county councillors, who provided funding for it from their highways budgets, and from local residents. One of the latest people to add her voice to the fight was 15-year-old Kedington schoolgirl Ellen Parrett, who wrote a letter to Haverhill town council highlighting how dangerous the area is just weeks before work on the crossing was due to start.

After over three years of campaigning, the crossing has finally been delivered, providing a safer way to cross the busy A-road.

"I'm really, really pleased it's been done," said Clare county councillor Mary Evans, who has been pushing for the crossing. "For me it's about the people coming in from the villages, who I represent. It's going to make it safer to cross the road."

Haverhill county councillor Tony Brown added that it was "absolutely brilliant news".

But Mr Davies said he was "very, very disappointed".

He says that the lack of a lay-by for buses to pull into means it is still unsafe for schoolchildren getting off.

"Why they haven't put a lay-by there I can't understand," he said. "The bus should come off the road."

He is concerned about the bus stopping amid heavy traffic which will include large lorries travelling towards Cambridge.

He had wanted a lay-by to the right of the crossing so that people could get off the bus and turn left to cross the road.

Mr Davies was also annoyed that the bus shelter was dirty because it was left "lying in a ditch" while the works were going on and wasn't cleaned before being put up. "It was absolutely filthy," he said.

Cllr Tony Brown said that he had raised the possibility of a lay-by at the stop with the Suffolk Highways team but was told that buses often have difficulty pulling out of lay-bys on busy roads.

A spokesperson for Suffolk Highways said: "A separate bus layby was never in the plans for the crossing, however the bus stop has moved slightly further up the road where buses are able to pull in to pick up and drop off passengers safely."

Cllr Brown went on: "The only slight fly in the ointment was that the bus shelter wasn't clean."

Cllr Brown said he had been told the delay in cleaning was due to a different team being responsible for the upkeep of the bus stop.

A spokesperson for Suffolk Highways said: "Following the installation of the pedestrian crossing before Christmas, the bus shelter is due to be cleaned within the next week."

The crossing was originally set to be delivered in the summer, but it was put back due to a delay in the design process.

BUSINESS

Paul's business grows – with some milky stockings

IT'S A MOO-RACLE: Paul Moore with the milk-teds

A HAVERHILL company has taken over the distribution of a unique product – compression stockings made out of milk.

The unusual items come packaged in old-fashioned milk cartons and are now being sold by Haverhill resident and former nurse Paul Moore, who runs online compression stocking emporium Compression.Solutions.

He says that there is only one factory which can make the socks, which are called milk-teds. A protein is extracted from milk using a chemical reaction, and it is then spun into yarn.

He went on: "When World War Two broke out all the men went off to war and all the wool was made into soldiers' uniforms."

He said that the people who were left behind had a shortage of wool for clothes, but a lot of extra milk because the men weren't there to drink it.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

"Some either genius or insane person said: 'We have got all this milk, we've got to do something with it.' So the people who were left behind made clothes from milk fibres," Paul said.

He said the milk fibres fell out of fashion after the war, but the fabric has some unique benefits because it is both natural and man-made.

He said that because it is man made it can wick sweat away from the foot, which is good for people with conditions such as diabetes, who need to keep their feet dry.

He went on: "Because it's natural, it's anti-bacterial and anti-fungal."

He said that clinical trials were taking place to find out if there was any truth in the claim that the milky fabric actually moisturises the wearer's legs.

The socks can be used to relieve tiredness, and treat swelling, spider veins and mild varicose veins.

Paul – who has 40 years of nursing experience – was approached by the manufacturers of milk-teds a few months ago about selling the stockings, and has now taken on their distribution.

He has been running Compression.Solutions for 11 years.

Paul says that people often express disbelief when they hear about the milk-teds.

"It's always an excellent conversation starter," he said.

To find out more, visit Paul's website, www.compression.solutions.

SING-A-LONG: Staff busking in the Coupals Primary Academy playground

Teachers busk to raise charity funds

STAFF at a primary school rounded off their winter term by busking in the school playground.

Staff at Coupals Primary Academy took to the playground to entertain parents and pupils with Christmas songs and to raise money for charity.

Headteacher David Maguire said: "I was really proud of our excellent team and their being prepared to go out of their comfort zones to help others."

They were fundraising for Cancer Research and managed to raise £150. Mr Maguire said: "The choice of Cancer Research was a poignant one for the staff at Coupals as a pupil who left us last year has just lost her dad following a long battle with cancer.

"We felt that our actions would be more meaningful than anything else we could do."

WASTE

Charge to empty brown bins is set

A FIGURE has been set for a controversial new charge on garden waste collection.

From the spring, Haverhill residents and people across West Suffolk are set to pay an annual subscription of £40 if they want to have their brown bins collected.

A spokesperson for West Suffolk councils said: "Because of budgetary constraints, from April 1, 2016, garden waste collection in Forest Heath and St Edmundsbury will change to a subscription service."

"This means that residents will pay an annual fee to continue to have their brown bin emptied. Both councils have agreed in principle to a fee of £40, subject to updates on the creation of the West Suffolk scheme."

The charge has been introduced after cuts in funding from Suffolk County Council.

The West Suffolk councils would have had to find an extra £500,000 in order to continue providing the service for free.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

In spite of a number of councillors voicing concerns, the idea to introduce a charge was approved by St Edmundsbury's full council on September 22.

Haverhill councillor Tony Brown said in response to the latest news: "I don't agree with any charge for the brown bins. I think it's just cost shunting from the county council. The county council have shunted the cost down to the borough and they have got to make cuts."

The decision to set the subscription charge at £40 took into account other councils' experience, the impact on the budget and how payments could be made as efficient as possible.

Similar charges made by other councils in the East of England range from £39 in Peterborough to £51.60 in Great Yarmouth.

The councils intend to review the scheme within three years.

One of councillors' concerns about the charge is that it will cause a drop in sustainable disposal of garden waste, with people instead opting to dispose of it alongside regular waste or to fly-tip it.

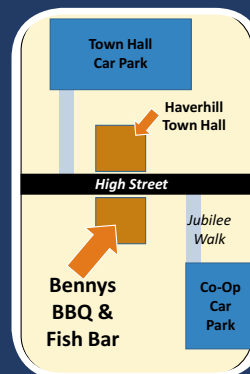

Cllr Brown said: "It just doesn't encourage people to do the right thing. Suffolk is supposed to be the greenest county."

The councils intend to encourage home composting and use of waste recycling centres as they introduce the charge.

The next update on the scheme will be made at a joint meeting of the performance and audit scrutiny committees of both councils on January 28.

Your pictures

BOXING DAY TRADITION: Jason Crooks sent us these photos of the Boxing Day meet of the Thurlow Hunt, which met behind Great Thurlow Hall for its drag hunt. "Hundreds of folks turned up to support their local hunt," he said.

■ We love to see your pictures. Send them in JPEG format marked 'Your Pictures' to wendy.davey@cambridge-news.co.uk. ## Good point, but too late now While agreeing with most of the points raised by Ms Heard in her lengthy letter sent 'on behalf of the local residents' to Mr Rand, and reproduced in full in the Haverhill News on December 17, I feel the need to point out that it is far too late to put forward such views expecting any change in the whole sorry exercise.

These points and many others were made in detail both verbally and in writing at the Vision 2031 enquiry in February 2014 but failed to influence the inspector who in his wisdom offered no objection.

Where was Ms Hearn then?

Why was the News not reporting on it in full and inviting views from residents then?

As I understand it the current so-called 'consultation' is for comments to be made on the recently published detailed planning permission, so that any views on the initial concept are irrelevant.

Like it or not, the north-east Haverhill development is a done deal.

It will be built and there is nothing any of us can do about it.

The time to wake up and try to put forward arguments based on very sensible grounds is well past.

It is just a shame that more people didn't realise the implications and get involved when they had the opportunity.

Give blood and change a life

MANY people in Suffolk will be considering giving things up for the New Year, like unhealthy food or alcohol. But you can change your life by choosing to give.

Giving blood is amazing – you can save or improve the lives of up to three people each time you donate. We need more than 6,000 people to donate blood every day to meet the needs of patients.

If you've never given blood before, register to donate blood and book an appointment to donate in Suffolk at www.blood.co.uk. Donating only takes an hour of your time.

Please support our campaign

AT this time of year we like to look forward to making resolutions for the year ahead. I'd like to ask your readers to think about those for whom the future might be a cause of nothing but worry.

Millions of people in the UK are disabled or care for a disabled loved one. In many cases they are bound together 24/7 through the need to give and receive care and are reliant on the support of others to have even the most basic quality of life. We believe that the right to shape one's own destiny is fundamental to a life with choice and independence.

I work for a wonderful charity called Revitalise; we run the Jubilee Lodge centre in Chigwell, which provides much-needed respite holidays for disabled people and carers from across the region and beyond.

Our new study clearly shows that disabled people and carers need more respite opportunities – such as the breaks we provide – and we need your help to reach out to them. We already enhance the lives of thousands of disabled people and carers each year through our respite holidays, but there are countless thousands more in need of support.

So please help us by supporting our fundraising appeal. It's your chance to spread some lasting goodwill! Visit revitalise.org.uk or call 0303 303 0147.

FIRE

Woman is rescued from blaze

A WOMAN was rescued from a kitchen fire in the early hours of Tuesday morning.

Two fire engines from Haverhill and one from Linton were called to the blaze in St James Court, Haverhill.

Firefighters rescued the woman when they arrived and then extinguished the blaze using four sets of breathing apparatus and two hose reel jets.

The fire – which was in a kitchen area – was out by 12.29am.

An ambulance and an ambulance officer were also called out and treated the woman at the scene.

The fire service will now investigate the cause of the blaze.

Remember to recycle your Christmas tree

NOW Christmas is over, it's time to think about recycling your tree.

Both artificial and real trees can be taken to the Haverhill Waste Recycling Centre for disposal.

If you have a real tree, you can also chop it up and put it in your brown bin, so that the lid closes properly.

Trees left next to brown bins will not be collected.

Call for runners to back town's first marathon

CHALLENGE: Runners at this year's Haver10 and fun run

Pictures: Paul Tebbutt

RACE organisers are calling for runners to support Haverhill's first marathon.

The run will take place as part of a new "Haverhill Festival of Running" on April 10. The event will combine the Haver10 10k and the HaverHalf half marathon – which have been running for two years – with the new HaverMara marathon.

Race director Jack Tappin says he believes it will be the second marathon in the whole of Suffolk.

The event will also feature a 2.5k fun run for families.

The routes for all three races will take runners through the picturesque villages of Suffolk and South Cambridgeshire. The Haver10 has a new route through Great Wratting and Withersfield, and HaverMara's two loops will take athletes through Withersfield, Thurlow, Great Bradley and more.

Mr Tappin said: "It's been great this year to build on the events I established in 2014, and to see them grow and the enthusiasm for athletics in Haverhill continue."

"Hopefully that will carry on

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

into 2016 and we'll see hundreds of people in Haverhill on Sunday, April 10, to celebrate in the Haverhill Festival of Running, with races to suit all ages and abilities."

Race licences are being applied for from UK Athletics, and the races will have staggered start times. The events will raise money for St Nicholas Hospice Care, which provides support for those with long-term and life-threatening illnesses, and runs the Burton Centre in Haverhill's Camps Road.

The event has been organised by HaverSports, which is also responsible for events such as the HaverTri and HaverDua triathlon and duathlon.

Online entries for the races are now open.

HaverSports is also looking for volunteers to marshal the events – they will be entitled to a T-shirt and free entry to another HaverSports event.

PRAISE:

Slimming experts meet soap star

TWO Slimming World consultants had their work praised by TV star Jason Donovan after meeting him at an awards ceremony.

Jo Johnson and Tania Watson run Slimming World groups at the New Croft in Chalkstone Way, Haverhill, on Tuesday and Wednesday. They attended the annual Slimming World awards in Birmingham where they met the Australian soap star and singer, who was hosting the event.

He said: "At the awards I met lots of people who've lost incredible amounts of weight and it has completely changed their lives – in fact, it's saved their lives in some cases. And every single one of them told me that they couldn't have made the changes they have to eat more healthily and become more active without the help and support of their Slimming World group and their consultant, so people like Tania and Jo are clearly very important."

Invite to enjoy friendly meal

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

THE organiser of a lunch club is trying to reach more people after the success of its first Christmas meal.

Haverhill resident Joan Key set up Soup-A-Lunch in March this year, supported by Age UK and local councillors, with the aim of keeping loneliness at bay for older residents.

A fortnight ago the club celebrated the end of its first year with a Christmas meal.

Joan said: "We decided back in September that it would be nice for us to celebrate Christmas, but also we could use it as a method to get more people involved."

She believes there are many more people in Haverhill who could benefit from the monthly food and company that Soup-A-Lunch provides, and she hopes to attract more of them in 2016.

Joan said: "It's sad that we can't reach the people who really need to come."

FRIENDLY FACES: The Soup-A-Lunch Christmas meal

She urged anyone who could benefit from the meal and company to simply go along to the Leiston Centre at midday on the second Tuesday of the month, or to call her on (01440) 703216. The next meal is on Tuesday, January 12.

Regular Valerie Crocker, 76, who lives on the Wilsey Estate, said about Soup-A-Lunch: "It's lovely. You need to meet people."

Meals generally cost £3, although the food at the Christmas meal – which included pudding and party snacks – was free thanks to donations from town councillors Jason Crooks and Paula Fox. At regular lunches, the meal is soup and a roll followed by a dessert.

At the Christmas event, which took place on Tuesday, December 15, everyone who attended was treated to a small Christmas present.

The diners were waited on by 12 Castle Manor Academy students aged 12 to 14 who were gaining valuable experience for a catering course. The students had made unique Christmas cards to give to the club members.

Knitters offering help to refugees

A CAMPAIGNER is urging residents to help keep refugees warm this winter – using yarn and knitting needles.

Haverhill Knit for Peace is an organisation that uses the knitting of local people to keep warm those who need it most, from sick children to refugees.

The organisation – which is a branch of a national charity – was set up three years ago by local resident Greta Palmer after she went to a knitting and stitching exhibition which had a section about Knit for Peace.

Greta said: "I thought to myself: 'There must be masses of knitters in Haverhill.' And I started to sort of track them down."

This year, she needs Haverhill knitters to create squares of fabric which will be turned into blankets.

These will be shipped out to refugee camps to provide a crucial layer of warmth for the people living there over the winter months.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

"Blankets are so important at the moment," said Greta.

Past Knit for Peace projects include "fish and chip jumpers", named after the newspaper used to wrap takeaway meals.

Greta explained: "In Africa there were so many babies born that were not expected to live that they were wrapped up in newspaper [like fish and chips]."

"We knitted masses and masses of little jumpers that the babies were wrapped in, in the hope that they would survive."

She urged anyone in Haverhill who can knit to get involved in knitting blanket squares.

Although she already has three bags full of squares, they are not being sent off until January so there is still time to donate them.

Greta advised starting your square with a single stitch and increasing the number until it is six inches wide – there is no set number of stitches.

You can drop any completed squares into the "alibaba basket", located at the Burton Centre in Camps Road.

The bags of knitting are being transported to the refugee camps thanks to a donation of £150 from Harry Zachariou, owner of Deja Vu cafe in Queen Street. He has received a hand-made Christmas jumper as a thank you.

The knitters meet on Mondays at 11am at Deja Vu.

To find out more, call Greta on (01440) 761659.

Class move to raise cash for charity

MEMBERS of an exercise class raised more than £100 for charity at their Christmas party.

Every year, members of Haverhill Leisure Centre's Keep Active class – which aims to help over-50s stay strong and flexible – use their festive party as an opportunity to raise money for a good cause.

This year, the charity they were helping was the Alzheimer's Society, and they managed to raise a total of £111.

Nigel Snape, centre manager, said: "Our Keep Active classes are a hugely popular session here at Haverhill Leisure Centre attracting up to 60 people per session and every year they use their Christmas party to raise money for those less fortunate. Congratulations to our Keep Active members on another successful fundraiser."

A cheque for £111 was presented by Keep Active co-ordinator Anne Jendoubi to Becky Nicholson, from the Alzheimer's Society, at Haverhill Leisure Centre.

Citizens' Advice calls for help over new year period

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

HAVERHILL Citizens' Advice Bureau is calling for more volunteers to help cope with its busiest time of the year.

The bureau says volunteers don't need special training, only spare time, a friendly attitude and an ability to get on with people.

Mo Sandles, a former swimming teacher, has been volunteering and helping people seeking advice at Haverhill CAB for 20 years. She said: "When they come in, they're so nervous, they've probably not slept the night before. What you've got to do is put them at ease and be natural with them."

Volunteers deal with a variety of problems and are likely to become general advisors, like Jackie Grace, who has been volunteering for 10 years.

She is the first port of call for people seeking advice, and has to deal with a wide range of different issues. She sees eight to 14 clients a day and spends 10 to 15 minutes with each person talking through their problems.

She said: "I either come back with pamphlets and leaflets of advice and telephone numbers, or I will come back and say: 'This person needs to sit down with somebody'."

Both advisors agree the experience is rewarding. Jackie said: "You learn an awful lot."

The call for volunteers is all the more urgent because one of the bureau's busiest times of year is approaching.

Jackie said: "In January and February we will have lots of people coming in with separations and divorce, or people who have overspent at Christmas and want budgeting advice."

Those wanting to volunteer or seek advice can drop into Haverhill CAB from 10am to 1.30pm on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, or get telephone advice on Thursday and Friday from 1.30pm to 3pm. Call the bureau on (01440) 762194.

Butchers make tasty donation

A BUTCHER'S shop made a charity donation to gobble up – 10 turkey crowns for Christmas dinner.

Kedington Butchers made the generous gift to REACH community projects, the Haverhill-based charity for those struggling with debt and poverty.

Paul Morris, of Kedington Butchers, said: "We're just pleased to be helping people out in their time of need, especially at this time of year." REACH has been running a food bank over the festive period and a Christmas appeal for donations to their client aid fund. Visit www.reachhaverhill.org.uk.

POLICE

Tweets by police show workload

A TWEETATHON by Suffolk police has given an insight into the incidents they have to deal with on a daily basis.

For 24 hours, starting from 7am on Thursday, December 17, volunteer police officers and staff in the control room tweeted the details of calls as they came in.

In that time, police dealt with 548 incidents with 245 calls coming through 999.

More than one million people were reached with the tweets which detailed a large majority of the calls.

Superintendent Louisa Pepper, lead for the contact and control room, said: "I'm really pleased to say that the event was a huge success.

"It was a big risk for us to take, as we have never before given the public such ready access to the information we receive.

NATALIE ROBINSON
@NatalieR\_CN

"I am very glad we took the risk however, as we achieved our aim of showing people just a small part of what policing today involves."

Incidents ranged from domestic disputes and alarm activations to missing people and assaults.

Supt Pepper added: "The majority of our communities think our work is purely about traditional policing, and responding to reports of crime, but the demand we face is far wider than this, covering all areas of community safety, vulnerability and safeguarding.

"This was a great chance for us to demonstrate this, while providing advice and information and highlighting how police telephone numbers should be used.

"The response to the event was overwhelmingly positive, showing us that people really are interested in what their police service does and are very keen to understand how our work has changed."

Police and Crime Commissioner Tim Passmore said it was a "vivid illustration" of the volume of work the police undertake.

He said: "It was a really good opportunity for everyone to see exactly what our police officers deal with on a day-to-day basis, and doing this in real-time made this a particularly authentic exercise."

Be careful what you tweet

HMRC is using a massive data-mining tool to catch tax evaders, and that includes snooping on social media accounts. So should we be censoring our online selves? Katie Wright finds out

Posting a photo of an artfully-arranged plate at a posh restaurant is one of social media's greatest joys - or irritations, depending on who you ask - but did you know your #foodporn snap could land you in trouble with the tax man?

That's because HM Revenue & Customs uses a data-driven behemoth to sniff out tax dodgers. Called Connect, the tool has "the capacity to highlight patterns in HMRC's rich reserves of taxpayer and third party data, allowing us to find anomalies between such things as bank interest, property income and other lifestyle indicators, and a customer's stated tax liability". An extremely powerful system, Connect uncovers in minutes what a fleet of private investigators beaver away could take weeks to find.

It's aimed at a whole raft of tax avoidance strategies - from errors and legal loopholes to outright fraud - but also uses social media to identify discrepancies and to try and plug the estimated £34 billion annual tax gap. So if your Facebook page is an endless parade of expensive-looking holidays, dinners and shopping trips, but you're paying very little tax, the bods at HMRC are going to want to know why.

Since its pilot in 2008, the data-mining approach has netted an extra £3 billion in tax revenue, part of the reason the tax gap is steadily declining - it was down 6.4% last year. But is it really fair to use social media as a barometer for a person's wealth?

What if you are taken out for dinner at a new restaurant but you don't foot the bill?

Or if you snag a designer coat at a cut-price sample sale - could you be penalised for your thriftiness?

In reality, you're probably safe, because nabbing Twitter show-offs isn't Connect's priority.

It's mostly used to target big-time fraudsters who are hiding businesses or off-shore accounts, plus it relies on public data (but can demand that companies hand over data if a tax case depends on it).

If anything, though, this social site trawling might have an unintended benefit: it might cause humble braggers - people who post ostensibly self-deprecating statuses just to highlight their lavish lifestyles - to keep schtum.

HAVERHILL Arts Centre has announced its January to April season. This week, we've picked out the highlights in March and April ■ Get grooving with some retro music. The Barron Knights, still going strong after 40 years, will be entertaining crowds on Friday, March 4, at 8pm. And you'll be able to relive the super seventies with Wrong Stewart and The Farces on Friday, April 29, and Bob Drury in the Viva Neil Diamond tribute on Friday, April 15.

■ Further melodic diversions can be found in the form of the Irish chanteur Dominic Kirwan performing in his Here for a Good Time show with his son Barry on Thursday, April 7.

■ Comedy fans have a treat in store as the arts centre welcomes Omid Djalili with support from Boothby Graffoe on Saturday, April 16. There are also two Monkey Nuts Comedy Club Nights on Sunday, February 21, and Sunday, April 24.

■ Younger theatre-goers can head to Frogs and Snails and Teddy Bear Tales by Freehand Theatre (Wednesday, March 30), which is full of songs, inventive puppetry and plenty of joining in. Dorothy, Toto, Scarecrow and friends will be around to provide a treat for all the family in the Easter holidays with a panto version of The Wizard of Oz on Saturday, April 9.

■ David Starkey was forced to postpone his last lecture at the arts centre but has re-scheduled it for Saturday, April 23. He will discuss the Magna Carta and the long-reaching effect it has had on the British constitution and our culture.

■ Tony Stockwell, the psychic known for his TV appearances on Street Psychic, Psychic Private Eyes and Psychic Academy, will be back on Wednesday, April 20, demonstrating his belief that those who have passed on can communicate with their loved ones.

■ The arts centre has two guitar nights in April, the first is with Jacques Stotzem, the renowned Flemish fingerstylist on Saturday, April 2, and on Friday, April 22, Vicki Genfan and Stuart Marsters come together to showcase the breadth of the acoustic guitar with songs and tunes with a global influence.

■ Events cinema (a mix of live and recorded broadcasts from national / international companies) will continue into the spring with the Bolshoi Ballet's productions of Spartacus and Don Quixote, on Sunday, March 20, and Sunday, April 10. Matthew Bourne provides a contemporary take on Bizet's Carmen with The Car Man, where the action is transported to a 1950's greasy, garage-diner, on Tuesday, March 1. You can also enjoy English National Opera's take on The Magic Flute on March 9.

■ Nick Keeble, arts and leisure manager, said: "I am particularly thrilled that we managed to secure Omid Djalili on his national tour and the fact that Boothby Graffoe is his support act was the icing on the cake! "As ever we have a wide range of musical and community events and our cinema broadcasts continue to go from strength to strength. They're great for us as they allow us to programme ballet and opera productions that otherwise wouldn't be possible for us."

Infiniti Q50 enhances world's ### first digital steering set-up

THE new 2016 Infiniti Q50 sports saloon is being launched with a number of performance and dynamic upgrades including next-generation ride and handling technologies and all-new advanced turbocharged V6 powertrains.

Making its debut on an Infiniti is the company's second-generation Direct Adaptive Steering, comprehensively modified from the ground-breaking first-generation system. The standard steering mode now offers advanced levels of steering feel and feedback.

The new Q50 also features Infiniti's Dynamic Digital Suspension (DDS) for the first time, which gives the sports saloon an optimal blend of ride comfort and class-leading response and agility. For those drivers looking for a blend of dynamic settings tailored to their own particular requirements and tastes, the Q50's Drive Mode Selector (DMS) can be augmented with a 'Personal' mode, which permits a bespoke mix of engine, suspension and steering characteristics.

Five powertrain options are offered with the Infiniti Q50, and for the 2016 model these include an advanced, all-new 3.0-litre V6 twin-turbo gasoline engine with direct injection. This new 'VR30' engine in Europe is available in only one state of tune: 400bhp, developed to provide an ideal mix of drivability, efficiency and performance.

The changes to DAS – the world's first digital steering system – have been made following extensive consultation with existing Q50 customers around the world and over 625,000 miles of testing.

The new Infiniti Q50 will go on sale in 2016.

Ford's autonomous car program goes up a gear

FULLY autonomous Ford Fusion Hybrid vehicles are taking to California streets next year, as Ford Research and Innovation Center Palo Alto continues to grow.

Ford is officially enrolled in the California Autonomous Vehicle Testing Program to test autonomous vehicles on public roads. This is part of Ford's 10-year autonomous vehicle development program and a key element of Ford Smart Mobility, the plan to take the company to the next level in connectivity, mobility, autonomous vehicles, the customer experience, and data and analytics.

Ford Research and Innovation Center Palo Alto is one of the largest automotive manufacturer research centres in the region, with a team of more than 100 engineers and scientists. The new research lab opened in January, expanding Ford's presence in Silicon Valley, which dates back to 2012.

Eighty per cent of the Palo Alto team joined Ford from the technology sector. The remaining 20 per cent are Ford employees from the US, China, Germany and Australia.

"Our Palo Alto team has grown significantly this year, using research and innovation to explore and develop future mobility solutions," said Mark Fields, Ford president and CEO. Research that has been conducted at Ford's Silicon Valley site this year includes:

FORD: Officially enrolled in the California Autonomous Vehicle Testing Program

■ Autonomous vehicle virtual test drive: Allows virtual interaction between an autonomous car and pedestrians

■ Sensor fusion: Detect and track objects in the vehicle's view, combining information together to provide a 360-degree view of the car's surroundings

■ Camera-based pedestrian detection: Serve as the eyes of a vehicle, allowing the car to "see" pedestrians

■ Data-driven health care: Collecting

GPS data and mapping coordinates to make health care, vaccines and medication delivery to people throughout rural Africa more efficient and accessible

Ford has developed relationships with top universities this year, including University of California-Berkeley, Carnegie Mellon University, Santa Clara and San Jose State. "Having a strong presence in Silicon Valley allows us to further accelerate our research on a wide range of technologies, and apply our insights to create real-world mobility solutions," said Ken Washington, Ford vice president, Research and Advanced Engineering.

Button adds to Pact drive

FOUR legendary F1 drivers, Chris Moyles and Johnnie Walker whiskey teamed up in a drizzly car park in Brent on Friday to deliver an important festive message – don't drink and drive.

As part of the £JoinThePact initiative, which encourages motorists to sign a pledge to never drive a car while drunk, Fernando Alonso, Mika Hakkinen, Jenson Button and 'the unStoffable' young McLaren driver Stoffel Vandoorne tore around the Wembley car park in a succession of McLaren supercars.

"Our message would be to never drink and drive, to Join the Pact," explained Hakkinen. "It's a cool message – we're saving lives here."

The tide has turned against drink-drivers

ALMOST half of motorists would call the police if they saw a stranger getting behind the wheel when clearly over the drink-drive limit, according to new research.

Some 49 per cent of people would alert the authorities if they spotted someone who had drunk too much getting ready to drive, the survey of 29,568 motorists found.

This figure plummets when the situation involves a friend (3 per cent) or relative (2 per cent), although 78 per cent said they would take away the car keys and call a cab if it arose when they were meant to be getting a lift home from a festive party.

The research was commissioned by motoring organisation the AA to mark the launch of its joint anti-drink-drive campaign with Irish whiskey brand Jameson.

AA president Edmund King said: "There are more temptations to drink and drive at this time of year but there is also more likelihood of being caught as half of drivers would report a drink-driving stranger and most police forces will breathalyse all those in crashes.

JUST SAY NO: The public's tolerance for drink-driving is lower than ever

"Worse public transport, more parties or relatives to pick up should not be an excuse to drink and drive."

Latest Department for Transport figures show the annual number of drink-drive fatalities in Britain has fallen significantly from 1,640 in 1979 to 230 in 2013.

SWOOP: New Porsche Boxster

Porsche confirms '16 price realignment

PORSCHE has confirmed that the 2016 Boxster will, for the first time, be more expensive than the Cayman sister car, as the duo receive a significant mid-life update and new four-cylinder turbocharged engines.

The new ranges, dubbed 718 versus the outgoing model's 918 designation, will be realigned to mirror the 911's, where convertible models are more expensive by default. Previously, the more performance-focused Cayman was the pricier.

It's not clear yet whether the Boxster will simply become much more expensive or whether the two models will swap price points, with the Cayman getting cheaper.

Porsche has set no date for the arrival of downsized engines but says they are definitely coming, with 'equally powerful' versions for both cars.

Both the Boxster and the Cayman are expected to debut at the Geneva Motor Show in March.

Borough survive to take point on road

HAVERHILL Borough held on for a share of the spoils in their Boxing Day clash away to Halstead Town.

The Thurlow Nunn League, First Division encounter saw Borough pressured by the hosts, but still lead by two goals at the interval.

However, Halstead drew level after the break and the visitors survived having goalkeeper Charlie Turner sent off to secure a 2-2 draw.

Ryan Swallow was denied an opener from a free kick after just three minutes, with Halstead keeper Luke Banner turning the effort away for a corner.

Halstead then had two chances which they failed to take before Craig Pruden headed on for Swallow to fire Borough in front after 17 minutes.

At the other end, Turner was forced to make another good save, but it was not long before Borough added a second.

This time it was Danny Shipton who got the goal, with his free kick bouncing awkwardly in front of the Halstead keeper, hitting the post and rolling in.

Matt Staines had the opportunity to add a third on the stroke of half time, but his shot was saved.

Halstead got two back after the break and Turner was dismissed five minutes from time for violent conduct, but it ended all square.

In the Premier Division, Haverhill Rovers suffered a 3-0 defeat at home to Long Melford.

Michael Shinn's side return to action this Saturday when they travel to Brantham Athletic.

Fish makes history with Alliance win

LYN Fish became the first female amateur to taste victory at a Suffolk Winter Alliance meeting as she and husband Andy won the fourball better ball competition.

The Haverhill husband-and-wife duo scored 41 points, beating Sam Ufford, of the host club, and Halesworth's Jason Finbra on countback.

It was their tally of 23 points on the back nine which ultimately saw them take the win.

Dan Wilkins took first in Division One, beating Lyndon Brown on countback after both scored 36, while Peter McLennan was third on 34.

Division Three honours went to Ian Andrews after he scored 36, with Keith McCallum second on 31 and John Goddard a further point back in third.

He won Division One too, with Eric Armstrong beating Tim Daniels into second on countback after both scored 35.

Division Two was won by Mick Dalena on 37, with Andy Tabrar second on 36 and Mark Firman third on 35.
